The above regiment is locally known as the D. Proping.

The above regiment is locally known as the D'Epineu Souves, and is composed principally of Frenchmen, or those of French extraction. The officers are nearly al military men, the Colonel and Major, as well as several of the company officers, having seen service in the Crimea. The Lieutenant Colorel, Viginer de Monteil, was an officer of artillery in France, and served for seventeen years. He was in Mexico, with Prince de Joinville, at the taking the fort of San Juan d'Ullea, and lefte rance, after the goup detat, for political motives. He has ever since resided in this country, and is a naturalized citizen clonel Lionel Jobert D'Epineuil was in the navy, but mever served in the land army. The Major, J. B. Cantel-was also in the French army for thirteen years, three of which were passed under General Changarnier, in Algepia, the birthplace of the Zouave. The is a native of Prance, is now about forty years of age, and five year go came to the United States to make it his home.

The uniform of the regiment is the same as that work By the Imperial Guard of France, and is exceedingly neat and comfortable. They are armed with the Enfield rifle Their equipments are of a superior character, and the disthe corps is nearly all that could be desired.

try, are tough and muscular, most excellent material to make a serviceable and efficient corps. A new feature is to be introduced, which has heretofore been only partially carried out in Sherman's battery. The officers be low sixth sergeant, and the privates, are to be armed with revolvers, instead of sabres. It has been foun that the sabre is a very inefficient weapon to use against cavalry, and it has been determined to arm with re-volvers, that the artillerists may effectually defend themselves, and prove equal to meet the species of warfare which will largely be brought against them.

THE NAVAL BRIGADE. The military forces of the expedition will be accompassed by a naval brigade, composed of sailors who are to man the small boats and render valuable assistance in landing the troops in case of attack or occupation. The brigade Colonel......WILLIAM A. HOWARD PONTOON BRIDGES FOR THE EXPEDITION. Some curiosity was exhibited by a numerous crowd on the grounds of the Park Barracks during the past few days, a new army bridge being on exhibition there during the afternoon, a numwhich will go with General Burnside's expedition-When run across the water it will be divided into section of forty feet long, and entirely composed of wood, one of which was the subject of examination yesterday. The weight of an entire section is 3,470 pounds, and it can be made ready for launching by experienced engineers in the space of five minutes. The chief point of excellence pertaining to the bridge is the means adopted for supporting it, which consists of wire trusses, about two inches in circumference, interlacing one another as they run. When placed perpendicularly along the bottom, that degree of strength cannot be arrived at which the interlaced trusses guarantee. The cost of the bridge will amount to about $300. When thrown across a river, if properly secured, it will re main for a length of time in its position, so that if re treat becomes necessary among our soldiers, there will be no difficulty met with.

THE EXPEDITIONARY LEADERS.

GENERAL AMBROSE E. BURNSIDE. General Ambrose Everett Burnside is a native of Indians, but has been for some time past a resident of e Island. He is about thirty-seven years of and graduated from West Point in 1847, age, and graduated from West Found in the Second Lieutenant in the Seco transferred to the Third artillery, and was attached to the robei General (then Captain) Bragg's company. In December, 1861, he was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant, and to October, 1863, retired from the service. In the interval to the outbreak of the present troubles General Burnaide was occupied in the civil walks of life. During the administration of the present troubles. whom he was to share the profits. General Burnside who had incurred considerable expense in bringing hi weapon to perfection on the strength of Floyd's promis was consequently involved in some pecuniary difficulti sequent to this transaction he was connected with the Il-linois Central Railroad, in company with Gen. McClellan. At the commencement of the war he raised a regiment in Providence, R. I., where he had married a most estimable isdy of that State, and with it took part in the battle of Bull run. This regiment, of which he was Colonel, was the First Rhode Island Volunteers; but during the battle he was Acting Brigadier General of the Second brigade of the Second division. His skilful gene-ralship on this occasion brought him to the immediate notice of the authorities at Washington, and on the 6th of August hat he was promoted to a full Brigadier General. Personally General Burnside is a man of fine appearance, with a lofty forehead, expressive of deep penetration.

His manners are very winning and pleasing, while at the same time his features denote a firmness and decisiveners. of character eminently appropriate to the important go sition which he occupies. He is, withal, a strict disci plinarian, a most implacable enemy to military irregulari ty, and yet a most popular man with every one.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JOHN G. FOSTER. Brigadier General John G. Foster is an officer dis hed alike for bravery, gallantry and experience. He is a native of New Hampshire, and from that State was admitted as a cadetat West Point in the year 1842.. On the 1st of July, 1846, he was breveted Second Lightener of Engineers, he at that time standing fourth in his class. On the 20th of August, 1847, he was breveted First Lieutenant for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battles of Contreras and Cherubusco. Ha was will which engagement he was severely wounded, and for his gallant and meritorious conduct while in this battle he was breveted [Captain, his commission bearing date September 8, 1847. He was Assistant Professor of Engineering at the Military Academy during 1864, and in April of that year was made a full First Lieutenant of Engineers. On the 1st of July, 1880, he was made a full Captain, at the same time holding a brevet higher rank. He was also one of the brave few who so long and so gallantly defended Fort Sumter against the robel soldiery of South Carolina. Since his return from that fort he has been activaly engaged in the superingendence of the forof his engineering qualifications. In consideration of his military capacity and experience he was created by the President, since the adjournment of Congress, a Brigadier General of Volunteers, and ordered to report to Genera

COLONEL WILLIAM A. HOWARD. Colonel William A. Howard, commander of the Naval Brigade attached to General Burnside's division, is a on of great experience, having been for many years ched to both the navy and the revenue service of the manner won the esteem of all his comrades. For some marine, in which he continued for some time. During the Mexican war he was engaged in the conflict, and ac-quitted himself nobly, adding fresh laurels to those he had already won. He was also engaged in the merchant service. one of the men that the present difficulties of the country will bring forward and show in their real light. Howard is amply suited to command any body of men, under any circumstances. He combines courage with skill, and we are satisfied that he will make every effort

COMMANDER SAMUEL F. HAZARD, U. S. N. Commander Samuel F. Hazard is a native of Rhode Island, from which State he received his appointment in was in January, 1823. He has spent over nineteen year eight years unemployed. His entire service is a little nt years. 1855. He has had command of the United States steam ship Pocabontas, and before taking his present position was commanding the naval rendezvous at Reston

A SPLENDID BATTERY FOR GEN. BUELL. A few days since a battery passed through Cincinnati with great mystery as to its destination; but as it was composed of splendid material it was supposed by the few who witnessed its transit that it was intended for some important point. It now appears that it was en route to join the command of General Buell, of the Depart route to join the command of General such, of the Department of the Ohio. It consists of six pieces of artillery—four twelve pounders and two ten pounders. The guns are of a splendid quality and are all rifled. The battery is complete in men, horses, guns and equipments, and will prove an effective force in the army concentrating under that noted General. The company is enrolled as Battery H, of the Fifth regiment of the regular service, and is commanded by Captain Terrill.

Captain William R. Terrill is a young man, not yet in his thirtieth year, but already shows evidences of talen in his profession. He is a native of Virginia, and was ad mitted as a cadet at West Point in the year 1849. He was breveted a Second Lieutenant of the Third artillery in July, 1853, and in November of the same year was transferred to the Fourth artillery. In 1855 he was acting Assistant Professor of Mathematics in the Military acting Assistant Professor of Mathematics in the Military Academy, and in May, 1856 was promoted to the First Lieutenantcy of the Fourth artillery, his commission bearing date from the 31st day of March. In the Army Lists of 1859, 1860 and 1861 his name stood but three below that of the present Assistant Inspector General on General McCleilan's staff, viz: Lieutenant Colonel E. McK. Hudson, each being a lieutenant in the Fourth artillery. On the 14th day of May, 1861, he was promoted to a captaincy in the same regiment, which command he still holds at the present time.

DEPARTURE OF REGULAR TROOPS FOR WASHINGTON.

Nearly five hundred regular troops, belonging to the First cavalry and Fourth and Ninth infantry, which ar-rived from California on Tuesday last, took their deparrived from California on Tuesday last, took their depar-ture for Washington per rail yesterday morning. The soldiers have been quartered in the Park Barracks since their arrival in this city, where every attention has been paid to their wants. They are under command of Lieut. Colonel Buchanan, and it is understood will be put into active service on their arrival at the seat of war. Their appearance in Broadway, as they marched to the Jersey City ferry, was highly creditable, and elicited flattering commendation from the crowds who witnessed their de-parture. A list of officers appeared in Tuesday's issue of the Herald.

THE NINTH NEW YORK CAVALRY REGI-

The above regiment left Albany at four o'clock on Tues-day afternoon, and arrived at Jersey City on board the steamer Knickerbocker and a barge at nine o'clock yes-terday morning. The material of which the Ninth is composed, together with the list of officers, appeared in yesterday's HERALD; so that it is unnecessary here to yesterday's Herald; so that it is unnecessary here to recapitulate. Through a misconception, however, as to the name of the corps it was erroneously stated that the men arrived and took their departure for Washington on Monday night. The departure from Albany was the occasion of quite an inspiring and affecting time. The regiment were escorted to the boat by a number of Colonel Van Zandt's infantry. A company of United States Lancers joined the corps from this city, under command of Captain Kennedy and Lieutenants McTigh and Wilson. The strength of the entire corps will amount to about 1,100 men, and they will, no doubt, make their mark in the service. They are possessed of that great essential for a military career, that of a competent and experienced body of officers, mest of whom have or smelled powder? before the present time. The men have not yet received their arms or horses, but will be provided with the same on their arrival in Wash ington. They left for Washington last evening by the Amboy route.
